Visit of German Chancellor Ludwig Ehrhardt to United States, June 11-13, 1964

Chancellor Ehrhardt departed New York for Washington, D.C., June 12, 1964 at 8:45 A.M.

Detective Widinger, Bureau of Special Services,
New York City Police Department, advised on June 12, 1964 that no untoward incidents occurred during Chancellor Ehrhardt's stay in New York, although a small group of twelve individuals, identified as members of Betar, a Zionist youth organization, staged brief picket demonstrations at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel and Kennedy Airport on June 11 and June 12, 1964 protesting the participation of German scientists in the missiles program of the United Arab Republic.

Detective Widinger advised these demonstrations were conducted in a peaceful and orderly fashion and at such distance that they did not come to the attention of Chancellor Ehrhardt. No arrests were made.
